Also known as Saint Helena, she converted to Christianity later in life. Her husband divorced her to pursue a political relationship, and she was left to care for her son, Constantine the Great, who would later legalize Christianity. She devoted herself to the Faith and became the patroness of archaeologists because she unearthed the True Cross.

ST. HENRY II

Handicapped/The Childless

Memorial: July 13

In 1014, Henry was crowned Holy Roman Emperor. He tried to store peace in Europe, and succeeded in Germany. He married Saint Cunegunda but never had children, hence his patronage of the childless.

ST. HILDEGARD von BINGEN

Memorial: Sept 17

Hildegard is not officially canonized (she is beatified) but is referred to as a saint by many. She wrote of theology and was consulted by kings and popes in a time when such a thing was not expected of women.
